

Professional Development In-house Training

Consult Australia offers a range of in-house Professional Development courses that can be tailored specifically to suit your firm's requirements. In-house training encourages greater team work and builds awareness and understanding of each other's roles in the organisation by enabling group discussion to be based around real examples that are specific to your business environment and policies. In-house courses can also be run at a fraction of the per head cost of sending each participant to an open course and have the added advantage of being able to be conducted at either your premises or at an off-site location of your choosing at a time that suits you.

An overview of the course available to be run in-house is included below—more information on each can be found at www.consultaustralia.com.au/education

Contracts for Consultants

This intensive 2.5 day training seminar is aimed at those who are regularly confronted with client contracts. The course provides essential advice and insight on managing and controlling contractual rights and obligations. It is conducted in a small group interactive format and has helped those with both limited and extensive experience to deal more effectively with contracts and their various terms and conditions. Tools and advice are given on how to develop fair and reasonable contractual relationships with clients.

Role of the Superintendent

The Superintendent's role is a complex one. It requires a sound understanding of the law of contract, substantial engineering skills, and in particular, an understanding of the provisions of the particular project outcomes. This intensive and interactive training program teaches you how to confidently manage the various Superintendent duties, the dual roles of the Superintendent, and how to avoid common legal traps.

Safety in Design

Consult Australia's Safety in Design course is an intensive two day seminar which addresses safety issues relating to design and provides practical tools on how to eliminate hazards at the design stage. Examples from practitioners will be provided and the far-reaching implications of recent legislative changes will be addressed as they relate to each state.

Notes:

- Prices include all facilitator related costs and the provision of all course materials for courses held in Sydney, Melbourne, Brisbane, Adelaide and Canberra. Due to the extra facilitator costs involved additional charges will apply for courses held outside of these cities.
- Costs associated with venue hire, equipment and catering are not included in the above as it is assumed the firm will host the training in-house or at a venue of their choice. Consult Australia can however make these arrangements for an addition cost on request if desired.
- A small amount of tailoring of course content is included in the above pricing but an additional charge will be applied should more extensive customisation be required (a quotation would be provided).
